10 Food Traditions for Good Luck in the New Year

Taken from the internet

A Known Fact...

In 45 B.C., New Year's Day is celebrated on January 1 for the first time in history as the Julian calendar takes effect. ... Celebration of New Year's Day in January fell out of practice during the Middle Ages, and even those who strictly adhered to the Julian calendar did not observe the New Year exactly on January 1.

<https://communitytable.parade.com/247839/smccook/foods-to-eat-for-good-luck-in-the-new-year/>

Ring in the New Year with one or all of these food traditions said to bring good luck in the coming year.

Black Eyed Peas: Resembling coins, these beans are said to bring prosperity in the New Year and are often enjoyed in the traditional southern dish known as Hoppin' John. In some households, enjoying the dish may be preceded by a hopping dance performed around the table by the children. Recipe to try: Katie Lee's Hoppin' John

Buttered Bread: New Years Day in Ireland is also known as Day of the Buttered Bread (or Sandwich, depending on the Gaelic translation you use.) Tradition says buttered bread placed outside the front door symbolizes an absence of hunger in the household, and presumably for the year to come. Recipe to try: Barmbrack

Grapes/Raisins: Tradition in Spain says 12 grapes or raisins eaten just before midnight (one at each chime of the clock) will bring good fortune for all 12 months of the year, as long as you finish all 12 before the final stroke!

Greens: Because of their deep emerald color (think money), hearty greens like kale, spinach, and collards are believed to bring wealth (And of course health!) to those who enjoy it early and often in the New Year. For legume or meat-based dishes, a garnish of parsley is also said to ward off evil spirits. Recipe to try: Baked Wild Rice with Kale, Caramelized Onions and Soft-Cooked Eggs

Pork: Bring on the bacon! Because pigs root forward while they forage for food (as opposed to cows, who stand still, or chickens, who scratch backwards), pork in all forms is enjoyed by many hoping to embrace the challenges and adventures that await in the coming year. Recipe to try: Jamie Deen's Roast Pork Loin with Sausage, Figs, and Fresh Herbs

Long Noodles: Signifying longevity in Asian culture, a stir-fry of unbroken noodles is a tradition believed to bring good health and luck in the New Year. Those who can eat at least one long noodle without chewing or breaking it are said to enjoy the longest lives and best luck of all. Recipe to try: Sheila Lukins's Soba Noodles with Dipping Sauce

Lentils: Resembling tiny coins, the custom of enjoying lentils in the New Year is a common Italian tradition said to bring wealth. Recipe to try: Slow Cooker Veggie Lentil Stew

Cornbread: Golden yellow and inarguably delicious, cornbread is especially popular in the South. Because it's color is similar to that of gold, this bread is enjoyed by those hopeful for a prosperous year. Recipe to try: Country Cornbread

Round Foods: Cakes, pastries, cookies, and round fruits like clementines are often enjoyed on New Year's Day as their shape signifies that the old year has come to a close and the New Year holds the promise of a fresh start. Recipe to try: Orange-Scented Olive Oil Cake

Whole Fish: In Chinese culture, serving fish whole (both head and tail intact) symbolizes prosperity, abundance, and a good year to come (from start to finish!)

Did You Know...

Corvairs throw fan belts. Despite the unconventional arrangement of the fan belt on the Corvair, the engine does not have a propensity to throw belts. As long as the fan, idler, and generator/alternator bearings are in good shape, the pulleys properly aligned, and the belt tension correct (not too tight!), the belt will last for years with no problems. (This is a Myth!)

V-P RAMBLINGS

*Submitted by
Vice President
John Johnson*

This year is rapidly coming to an end for us. As I reflect on this past year, 2018 was a year of sadness, joy, and hope for many of us, but especially for me. Let me break it down for you.

Sadness---CPCC suffered a monumental loss in July with the passing of Sandy Holmes. I am at a loss for words to fully explain this. Tragic, shocking, and unexpected are three that I can personally use to express how I felt when I heard the news. I had known Sandy since I joined the Club in the 1990's. I came to appreciate her through the years, especially when I became an officer. Corvair Day(s) was hers. I never realized how much work she did, behind the scenes until I began working with JOHN to continue this show. That was Sandy though; always out to do for the Club and its members, never caring to take credit. CPCC will not be the same without her, she has left her indelible mark on all of us and the Club.

Joy---CPCC has had another great year. We had cruises, took tours of local sights and visited collections. We are a very active group. You do not realize it until you read the Newsletters from various car clubs, both Corvair and "other" cars. I wonder how many of you realize the camaraderie members of CPCC possess. Just look around at our monthly dinner meetings. Everyone is talking, laughing and visiting. We spend more time doing this than actual carrying on the business of the Club. Speaking of "the business of the Club" this is a good time to thank the person most responsible for stepping in when Sandy passed is our president JOHN Berkheimer. CPCC continued on despite the tragedy of Sandy's passing. The Club moved ahead seamlessly because of his untiring efforts. To this I just would like to say, both on behalf of CPCC and myself THANK YOU JOHN!

Hope---This is the last of the three words I began with. This word/idea is the one that includes everyone. CPCC is your Club. We are only as successful as you, as members, make it. February is the month we plan for 2019. Please come to that meeting with ideas for what we can do in this upcoming year. I am hoping that we have so many ideas; it will be hard choosing the handful we can do. Don't despair though, everyone's ideas are important and remember there is always 2020, 2021... You get the idea.

See you at the Christmas Party. Remember the location has changed so refer to the notice printed in the Newsletter for the address. If you need specific direction just call JOHN or me.

In closing, Sandy and I wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Joyous New Year.
