From the President

Jeff Wentz

Over the last couple of months, I've been recounting some of my adventures with previous cars and summers spent autocrossing at Blackhawk Farms Raceway in South Beloit. Last month I introduced the infamous Number 13 Pinto coupe I raced for a couple of years (and lived to talk about it). I mentioned that I had bested the previous owner's personal lap record by 0.3 second. I'd like to claim it was my burgeoning skill as a budding Tazio Nuvolari, but it probably had more to do with a change of tires and a demon tweak to stiffen the Pinto's rear suspension.

The next autocross season was coming and so I invited my new girlfriend, Ann, who had never seen any kind of racing, to accompany me for a weekend. So, in early April I started preparing the Pinto—servicing the brakes, tightening all the bolts and screws, and safety-wiring some critical components (one of which I overlooked, much to my later dismay). To repack the front wheel bearings, I picked up some wheel bearing grease at AutoZone and diligently set to work. Unfortunately, my mechanical ~~innocence~~ ignorance came back to haunt me, as I failed to select high-speed grease.

The inaugural weekend came, and first run on that inauspiciously rainy weekend was altogether uneventful. But into the second run, the front wheel bearings began loudly announcing their intent to launch a smoking wheel at some hopefully attentive corner worker. Fortunately, Blackhawk's small concessions store had some heavy-duty bearing grease which I bought and prepared for downtime and greasy fingers.

By this time, most of the unpaved areas around the track had turned to mud, so I commandeered the track's small shop. I had just jacked up the car when some official ran me off, telling me an hour in that shop would cost me my firstborn and a kidney. Undeterred, I found a spot in the paddock and set about removing a front wheel. I was in a hurry to make my next run, so, still dressed in all my Nomex driving gear and faced with both the jackstand and I sinking in the mud, cold and soaked to the skin, I squatted down and set to work. Ann was dutifully holding an umbrella over me when I held up the just packed bearing and asked her to hold it... No response. I looked up and the horrified expression on her face was like I'd handed her a lightly grilled puppy on a skewer. "I can't", she wailed, "I'd get my hands dirty."

Damn. I married her anyway.

From the Director

Paul Polster

Hi there. On Saturday, March 29th, fellow CCE member Liam Coyne and I pulled the powertrain out of my '66 Monza convertible.

This was in order to change out front and rear crank seals (bad leak on the seal at the bell housing) and the differential side bearing adjuster seals. We also are going to install a new clutch disc, a new pilot bushing and a harmonic balancer in place of the cast iron pulley. We are waiting for a replacement clutch fork to arrive (spring steel piece broke off of the fork). We will also be replacing the four U-joints with units that are greasable.

Lots of greasy parts to clean up in the meantime.

We expect reinstall the drivetrain on Sunday, April 6th, the next time Liam will be available.

Update:

The rest of the story;

Liam and I finished installing the engine which now features a new clutch, pilot bushing, throwout bearing and a replacement clutch fork due to a broken throwout bearing retainer clip to boot. We also replaced the oil pan gasket and a fresh fill of oil and a new filter. Thank yous to Larry Claypool, Kirk Parro and Charley Biddle for needed technical advice. After we finished with all the reconnecting (throttle linkage, electrical etc, and around 9:30 PM) Liam attempted to start it up the starter decided to get fussy (would not turn over). We called it a night right after that. Next up is to pull the starter and check it out. I will keep you all posted.

Liam did the tap on the starter case (with love, of course) no improvement.

Here are some pictures from the drivetrain removal.

Corvair Musicania

Roll Out the Floor Jack

(sung to the tune of "Roll Out the Barrel")

Roll out the floor jack
The Corvair is broken again
Roll out the floor jack
We gotta fix it again.

Bring along the tool box
We'll need every socket in sight
Bring long the foor jack and the tool box
We'll be under the Corvait all night.

Ramblings from Your Humble Editor—

Correction: In the March 2025 Airhorn, I indicated in the Activities Calendar that the entertainment for the June CCE meeting was to be the Annual Sweets Auction. It should have said that June would host the Annual Parking Lot Beauty Contest. That was an oops on my part. The Sweets Auction was in the February meeting. When I build the entries for the Activities Calendar, I cut and paste the entries from the previous month to the end of the calendar. I change the date and I'm supposed to change the entertainment of the month.

Warshawsky Ads: In a nod (or two) to an April Fools theme, there are a number of Warshawsky ads for Corvair related items. The Airhorn thanks Frank Regal for finding and passing along a 1963 JC Whitney catalog. I scanned the Corvair related ads. A number of them are sprinkled thruout this issue of the Airhorn. There were even enough Corvair related ads to fill an entire Airhorn and then some. Not all of the ads that Frank indicated can be put in this Airhorn.

Corvair Musicania: Back in the late 1970's and early 1980's, Larry Claypool and Pat Carroll conspired to put Corvair related words to tunes we already knew. This month, the Airhorn brings you some of these. compositions. They were even performed at some drunken Corvair parties. There are several that are Christmas season related. They are on hold until the December Airhorn.

Captain Corvair: The February 1974 issue of the Airhorn brought us the introduction of Captain Corvair. The Captain was a creation of CCE member and graphic artist Jaime Graham. Over the next few years, Jaime created a number of Captain Corvair cartoons for the Airhorn. He also created the artwork for CCE Calendars for 1982 and 1983. A number of those art works live on as clip art used in the Airhorn to fill out columns when articles don't fill a column completely. Any resemblance of the Captain to a particular Corvair mechanic who opened a shop in Frankfort is pure coincidence. Note that the particular mechanic still wears that lab coat in tech sessions and videos.

Printer Cartridges: Last month I put a motion before the CCE board of directors asking for permission to early purchase additional laser printer cartridges, to be purchased before the current administration applies tariffs on Chinese made products. These cartridges are all made in China. The board passed the motion. When I looked on Amazon, I noticed the price per unit had been reduced by 45% over last month's prices. So, I bought two. I now have enough printer capacity to last well into next year.

Renewal Progress: The CCE membership renewal period is over. Twenty-six members from 2024 have not renewed their dues as of this date (April 8) and will not be considered members in good standing. Starting with the month of April, they will no longer receive the Airhorn. I expect that some number of them will renew over the coming year.

SMS Text Message Question: While processing renewal forms, I found the following single word question, "Why?" in the section where the form asks for Cell Phone Provider for memberships that have selected to receive SMS Text Messages from the CCE Alert System. This is a good question and there is a good answer.

First off, "SMS" stands for Short Message Service" and it was developed as a way for one mobile device to send a message to another mobile device, knowing only the telephone number of the target mobile device. This is called texting for short. The message is commonly called a text.

With the CCE Alert System, there is not someone sitting on a mobile device, keying in a bunch of phone numbers and the text of the Alert message. Instead, a computer is sending the messages as emails. Each cell phone provider has their own Internet server that can be sent a mobile device phone number and the contents of a message to be delivered to their customer's device as a text. For example, to send a text message to phone number (555) 123-4567, the text message would be in the body of an email sent to 5551234567@txt.att.net. If the recipient is a Verizon customer, send the message to 5551234567@vtext.com.

It is a cumbersome process to guess the mobile device provider for any given CCE Alert recipient's cell number. It is much easier for the membership desiring CCE Alert System SMS text messages to provide the name of their cell phone provider on the membership application/renewal form.

So that's why the name of Cell Phone Provider is requested for each membership signing up for CCE Alert System text messages.
