

Here are digital images from our 2015. Have a Happy New Year! --- Heula & Jim

In January, the 1965 Corvair went through light snow to the post office to mail last-minute packages.

In January the Corvair Club went to the Dough-Re-Mi Bakery in Edgewood.

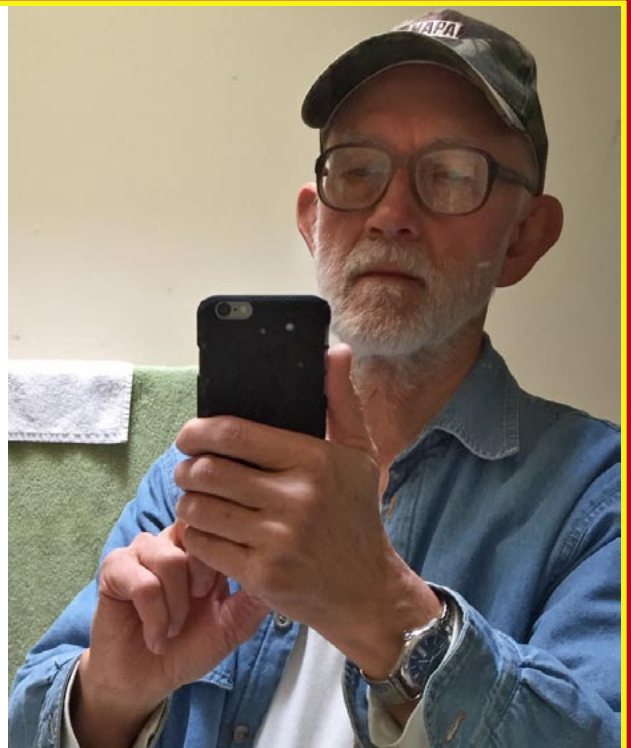

We all had a fine time and the food was great!

Jordan and Sean sent a snapshot. We framed it.

This year it was time for a new iPhone6.

Jim likes to hike in the foothills ... occasionally with friends like Mr Roadrunner.
Below, this is Sandia Mountain, with a dusting of new January snow.

When the highway department spelled our Old Route 66 cleanup sign "CONVAIRS" instead of "Corvairs" we thought we should document it. David helped out with his 1963 Monza convertible.

(Yes, they eventually got around to correcting the spelling.)

Two Mazda Miatas at our Corvair Club board meeting. But we think Corvairs are "sports cars" too.

On the coldest day of the year, the 1965 Corvair Monza went into the paint shop for dent and rust repair, a new windshield and paint. Tarmo admires the final result.

In March we happened to see the USAF Thunderbirds being refueled on their way from Florida to California, and were able to get a photo.

At our meetings we often have tech talks on how to maintain or restore Corvairs. Here Larry tells about cleaning and aligning the back window on his 1966 coupe.

After pruning the apple trees and cutting an elm tree, we had to cut up and trash all the leaves and branches.

Above: two scenes from our Old Route 66 cleanup project. We usually clean our mile four times a year.

In April members of the Corvair club made a tour to see the natural arch south of Grants, New Mexico. We stopped for photos at the old Route 66 bridge over the Rio Puerco. The lava flow near the natural arch.

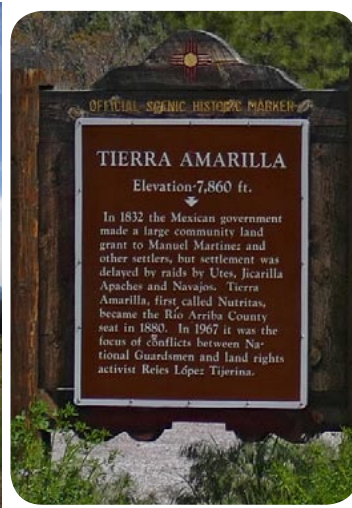

In April we met the Make-A-Wish coast-to-coast tour at the Owl Cafe. In May we had the Museum Car Show.

In 1961 Chevrolet made a beautiful Corvair Station Wagon, the Lakewood. Is this one super-red or what?

In May we set out (in the 2013 Civic) to drive to Durango, Colorado for the Corvair Club Tri-State. Near Tierra Amarilla we had a clear view of snow-covered mountains in Colorado.

We went with Elizabeth and Mark to Silverton. If you go to Durango, be sure to ride the narrow-gauge train. 5

We heard a noise under the edge of the roof!? It was a raccoon! He was encouraged to leave and not come back.

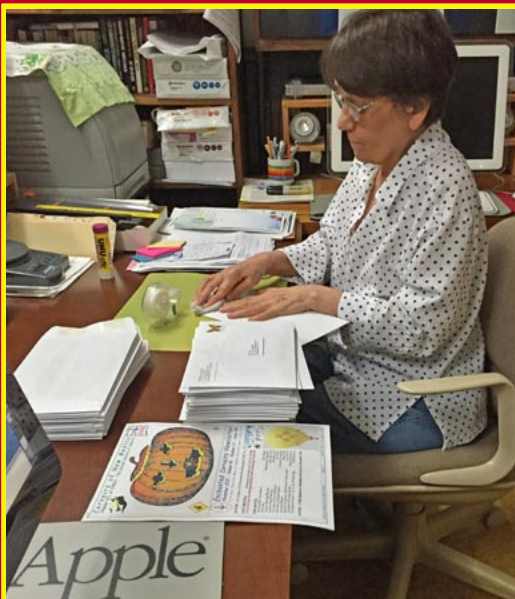

Inside a failed Corvair fuel pump.

A trip to Sandia Crest to see fall colors.

Heula stuffs newsletters into envelopes for the November (Halloween) issue.

This Apple IIGS (bought in 1993) and this HP LaserJet IIIp (bought in 1998) are still printing our mailing labels every month.

An event we look forward to every year is our auction/potluck/bingo party, hosted by Rita & Steve Gongora at HOUSE OF COVERS.

The bingo game was conducted by John Wiker.

Our special cake, baked by Heula, decorated by artist Jim.

Jim is wearing his lucky Corvair shirt. It must be lucky because he won his first bingo game.

Hurley & Brenda brought a new grandson to the party.

Vickie admires her Bingo winnings.
